"We have identified several cards in our game that are likely to be seen as giving an unfair advantage to players who are paired against someone else. These cards will no longer be available to the player at that level." - Commisioner Full details are below, if you see other cards that are not listed in these posts, please send them to me. So, unless a rule change is made, we don't play at U3A in new years. However, the good news is that there is not a lot of skill involved. You just play without other players or even controllers. It's just a big game of Animal (or Robot) Cards. You're not really "playing" at all. The rules are online here: There is also a Youtube video showing the game in action here. However, I've heard the rules can be easily chewed up by younger players, so we have therefore made some modifications that take away some of the skill component of the game. Most obviously, cards 2 through 6 are no longer available to the player in U3A. But, the rules are still exactly the same in principle. We tried to make the rules a bit "tighter" in general, for example, players can "steal" the cards that the other player "loses" (see card 1). But, having said that, we still want to keep things loose and there is still some room for individual play-styles. For example, you can see the rules for game 7 in these posts (there are some links in the posts): The rules for the games that are still available to the player are unchanged. The rules for the games that have been removed are as follows: 1. The initial opponent is chosen. A number is then drawn, with this being the number of players. 2. You are dealt cards 2 to 6 (these are initially unavailable to the player). 3. The rest of the players, if there are any, are drawn in turn until the player has dealt himself or herself the last card. This card is then available for play, but the player cannot play this card. 4. You may then play your cards, in any order, either to either win or to lose the game. 5. You are then scored in accordance with the

A fast-paced, strategic turn-based battler that doesn't take itself too seriously. Winner of the Indie Game of the Year Award! Introducing 'the Fruit Ninja craze' to the world. Harvest foes, slice fruit and make your ninja dreams a reality! Battle fierce wars against thousands of players online. Join us in playing and learning to make this game the biggest hit! How to play Fruit Ninja: 1. Choose your character and equipment. 2. Select a stage. 3. Enjoy! The Fruit Ninja series is a turn-based battle game. Instead of controlling the character, you are controlling an on-screen stickman (nicknamed the Ninja). You can move your character in four directions: left, right, up, and down. As you move, you will fire a variety of weapons at your opponent(s). Each weapon has varying effects, such as slowing your opponent, hitting in a wide area, getting certain fruit types, or causing you to lose berries. You can use weapons multiple times, until you run out of a weapon's special ability. The object of the game is to defeat all of your opponents, by using all your weapons to cut down your opponents. The final "end game" is to collect all of the fruit. When you are in the end game, some of the fruit will respawn and new fruit will appear. At the very end of the game, you can collect additional fruit to maximize your score. You can collect the fruit by cutting in the air, or by crossing the stage. The game lets you customize your play style by choosing whether to play as the Ninja or the Fruit. It also lets you choose whether you want to play using the traditional or self-made play methods. The two main play methods are the standard play method, and self-made play method. Standard Play In the standard play method, you choose one of the nine characters. Each character has its own unique play style. You will need to choose a character and equipment. Then choose to play at one of the three stages (Classic, Time Attack, and Survival). You will then play against one of your opponents, until there is only one remaining opponent. Each character is designed to be very different from one another. There are three characters, for each of the three play styles.
